Observations on Bishops Issenmann and Carberry

by Msgr. Thomas M. Bennett

As the 125th anniversary of the 1868 erection of the Diocese of Columbus approached, Bishop Griffin asked Msgr. Thomas Bennett to write a history of the diocese. While Msgr. Bennett never completed this daunting task, he did compile a draft chapter concerning each of the bishops from Rosecrans through Elwell. Much of the information on each bishop concerns his early life, education, service prior to becoming Bishop of Columbus, and, as bishop here, details of developments made and problems handled. Two of the completed sketches—those of Bishops Issenmann and Carberry—conclude with the following summaries of Msgr. Bennett's observations on the bishops' characters. Msgr. Bennett was ordained in 1957, so these conclusions are based in part on personal observation.

Bishop Clarence Issenmann (1958-1964)

After the sometimes stern and temperamental Bishop Ready, Bishop Issenmann was a welcome change. He smiled and seemed to enjoy being a bishop. He had a sense of humor. He spoke gently. He listened to his priests and understood their problems. With kindness he would make his point.

The priests felt the bishop had two failings. In responding to a question, the bishop would think aloud, giving various viewpoints and possible procedures. Many a priest, after talking to the bishop about a problem, returned to his rectory unsure what the bishop's decision was.

Another tendency was to procrastinate in making decisions. The priests of the diocese would joke that the bishop felt ignoring a problem would make it go away. Some priests agreed the bishop was right. Some problems, by being ignored, did solve themselves.

The priests were fond of Bishop Issenmann. They liked him and felt he liked them. He was approachable and available to them. Hence when his transfer to Cleveland was announced the priests were genuinely saddened to see him go.

Bishop John Carberry (1965-1968)

The bishop's achievements are impressive in retrospect. But at the time, with all the changes occurring in the Church from the Council and the breakdown of morals and morale, the bishop's years in Columbus were difficult. He was lambasted by conservatives who said he went too far in making changes and by liberals who said he moved too slowly and too cautiously.

But it must be remembered the Church was moving into unchartered and not untroubled waters. The bishop, by nature a genteel and a reserved man, was described as an enigma. His public persona was surprisingly outgoing. He showed himself to be witty and approachable. But the records indicate he was implementing the decisions of the Second Vatican Council. He was moving in the direction the Church was going. These times were difficult and the bishop had to lead the way. Never did he forbid in the Columbus Diocese any progressive movement ordered by Rome or advocated by the American bishops. The work he began would make the further developments by his successors much easier.

He left Columbus having borne the burden of the day's heat. Many felt he had been treated critically and unfairly by some of his priests; they felt his elevation to the Archdiocese of St. Louis was a reward for his innate conservatism and for playing ecclesiastical politics. It should be remembered that many priests liked the bishop and found him all that they could desire in an ordinary. Certainly he himself grew in Columbus and his growth was reflected in St. Louis where he was less distant and more approachable to his priests. He was a popular and successful archbishop. As leader of the Lafayette diocese, Carberry had been a rather typical pre-Vatican II bishop. In St. Louis he was a full post-Vatican II archbishop. Columbus was the catalyst between the two. He brought Columbus into the wider vistas of the post Vatican II Church and Columbus broadened his horizons to be a successful archbishop.

VIII. Michael Dugan

Michael Dugan was born between 1785 and 1795, no doubt closer to the earlier year. In 1810 he and his wife and three daughters were at the Buffalo Creek settlement. The wife is named Bridget in the baptismal records mentioned below. Bridget Dugan also was sponsor for Bridget, daughter of John and Rose Forker, in 1803. Michael and Neal Dugan jointly owned 200 acres of land in Donegal Township, of which only 12 or 15 acres were cleared when they sold it. This apparently was at the later Maloney's Corners. Michael bought his brothers' interest in their father's former land in December, 1816. According to the 1883 Butler County history (p. 312), "Michael Dugan eventually moved to Zanesville, Ohio." He had left Donegal Township by 1820. In 1825 Michael was an appraiser of John S. Dugan's personal estate in Zanesville.

An early account of the construction of St. Mary's Academy in Somerset in 1830 and 1831 mentions that "Mr. Carmine Taggart's two brothers, Mr. Dugan, and many other respectable gentlemen engaged in public works contributed largely" to the effort. The public works were the canals and roads then being built and it may be that this Dugan was Michael, especially since several of the Dugan women who seem to have been his daughters lived in Somerset.

No absolute proof of a relationship among Bridget Hughes, Catherine Wiseman, Ann Spurck, Elizabeth Dittoe, and Alice Fink has been found, but there are many indications that they were sisters and their most likely father is Michael. The baptism of Michael's daughter Catherine at Buffalo Creek points to the same conclusion.

John S. Dugan*

- A. Bridget Dugan married Thomas Hughes on June 9, 1822 in Muskingum County, before Rev. N. D. Young, O.P. Along with John S. Dugan, Mr. Hughes promised to pay most of the cost of building St. John the Evangelist Church. With Peter and Andrew G. Dugan, Thomas Hughes was a bondsman for Barbara Dugan as administratrix of John S. Dugan's estate. Thomas apparently ran an inn in Zanesville in 1830. Bridget was sponsor for Bridget Cassilly in 1831 and Thomas and Bridget were sponsors for Michael Spurck in 1833. Bridget died and was buried from St. John the Evangelist Church on March 13, 1835. It is not clear that she ever had any children; no records of any baptisms have been found. Thomas Hughes remarried in 1837, to Ellen Bridget Kiernan, and they had children Catherine, Ellen, and Clare, for whom baptismal sponsors were Catherine Orndorff and Peter Rogers. Eleanor Hughes entered the Church on November 22, 1837, with Mrs. E. Harkins as sponsor. Thomas and Ellen Bridget were sponsors for Mary Ellen Barrett in 1844. Thomas was sponsor for William H. Spurck in 1836 and for Valentine Orndorff in 1838. In 1838 he and George Spurck (see below) laid out Hughes & Spurck's Addition in Zanesville, bounded by Marietta, Stillwell, Hughes, and Spurck streets. By 1848 Thomas had moved to Peoria, Illinois. Ellen died by 1853 and perhaps by 1850, for Thomas was living alone that year. In 1870 he and his daughter Kate were living with the Peter Spurck family. Thomas died in 1877 and is buried on the Spurck family lot at St. Joseph Cemetery, Peoria. (S.H. Montgomery to Bishop Edward Fenwick, June 2, 1825; UNDA II-4-d A.L.S. History of Muskingum County, Ohio; J. F. Everhart & Co., 1882; p. 106. Muskingum County Chancery Record G/306 ff and I/3 ff.
- B. Catherine Dugan, daughter of Michael and Bridget, was baptized on Sept. 28, 1805 at Buffalo Creek; sponsor was Peter Dugan. This probably is the Catherine Dugan, born about 1806 in Pennsylvania, who married William Wiseman on July 17, 1827 before Rev. S. H. Montgomery, O.P. They lived in Somerset and about 1849 followed the Spurcks to Illinois and lived next to them in Peoria. William, a merchant, died in Peoria on September 19, 1857 and was buried at St. Mary's Cemetery. (The remains later were moved to St. Joseph Cemetery.) Catherine was living at 204 Second St. in Peoria with her sons Edward and Albert and grandson William in 1880.
1. William H. Wiseman, born about 1828, died on Sept. 5, 1838, aged 10 years; buried at Holy Trinity in Somerset.
 2. Edward D. Wiseman, born about 1830, moved to Peoria by 1850, where he was a grocer. He applied to be administrator of William's estate in 1857. His wife was Gertrude, daughter of Peter and Ann (Spurck) Dittoe of Somerset. They had a son named William, born about 1864. Gertrude died while visiting Cleveland in January, 1883, and was buried in Somerset.
 3. Lewis T. Wiseman, born about 1832, died on Sept. 19, 1838, aged six years; buried at Holy Trinity in Somerset.
 4. Ellen Wiseman, born about 1835, died on Sept. 9, 1838, aged four years; buried at Holy Trinity in Somerset.
 5. Michael Wiseman, baptized at Holy Trinity Church in Somerset on Aug. 20, 1837; sponsors were Henry Dittoe and "Elizabeth Dittoe or Dugan." He apparently died before 1850.
 6. Elizabeth Wiseman, baptized at Somerset on December 22, 1839, apparently died before 1850.
 7. John Wiseman, baptized September 1, 1842 at St. John the Evangelist, Zanesville; sponsors Robert Harkins and Catherine Dittoe; he was buried on January 21, 1844 from St. Thomas Church, Zanesville.
 8. Albert Wiseman, born in Ohio about 1848, was the only child living with William and Catherine in 1850; he was living with Catherine and his brother Edward in Peoria in 1870.
- C. Ann L. or Nancy Dugan, born about 1808 in Pennsylvania, married George Spurck on July 17, 1827 before Rev. S. H. Montgomery, O.P. (apparently a double ceremony with the Wisemans). George, a native of Philadelphia, was raised in Chillicothe and then Somerset and moved to Zanesville in 1826. With Thomas Hughes he laid out Hughes & Spurck's Addition in Zanesville, as mentioned above. The Spurcks moved to Peoria, Illinois in 1846, where George was a merchant and later a real estate speculator. He also built 25 miles of railroad, from Peoria to Elmwood, and graded and built bridges for another 25 miles. He bought an interest in a distillery, which he later rebuilt and operated himself. (Peoria Daily Transcript, Oct. 16, 1875). The Spurcks became wealthy and prominent in business and social circles. George died on October 15, 1875 and was buried from St. Mary's Church. Ann died on March 4, 1889, aged 80. They are buried at St. Joseph Cemetery.

1. Mary Caroline Spurck was baptized on September 10, 1828; sponsors were B. Dugan and Lewis H. Dugan (recorded at Holy Trinity Church in Somerset). She married Thomas S. Dobbins in Peoria on May 24, 1849. They lived in Chicago, where Thomas died on April 10, 1889 and Mary on March 31, 1896. They had at least one son.
 2. Peter E. Spurck, born February 17, 1831, married Ellen B. Hughes in Peoria on Sept. 18, 1856. They lived in Peoria where Peter was treasurer of the Peoria Distilling Company. Ellen died in June, 1889 and Peter on March 23, 1897 and they are buried in St. Joseph Catholic Cemetery. (McCulloch, David, Historical Encyclopedia of Illinois and History of Peoria County; Chicago and Peoria: Munsell Publishing Co., 1902, Vol II) They had seven children, a biographical sketch of one of whom, Edward L. or Eddie, appeared in Peoria City and County, a Record of Settlement, Organization, Progress and Achievement; Chicago: S. J. Clarke Publishing Co., 1912, Vol. II.
 3. Michael D. Spurck, born on May 5 and baptized May 26, 1833 at St. John the Evangelist Church, Zanesville. He married Harriet U. Selby, daughter of Peoria businessman James Selby (formerly of Deavertown and Lancaster, Ohio). He worked at the distillery with his father and in 1863 began the manufacture of corn planters, first with his father-in-law, then with his sons in the Union Corn Planter Company. His properties were among the most extensive in Peoria. "Maintaining an unblemished character and spotless reputation, his home life was as happy as his business career was successful... a God-fearing man." He died on June 27, 1897. (McCulloch, David, Historical Encyclopedia of Illinois and History of Peoria County; Chicago and Peoria: Munsell Publishing Co., 1902, Vol II) They had ten children.
 4. (William) Henry Spurck, baptized at St. John the Evangelist on February 27, 1836; sponsors were Thomas Hughs and Margaret Barrett. He died in 1901 and is buried with his brother Louis or Albert Lewis, in Nelson, Nebraska.
 5. Louis Albert Spurck, baptized at St. John the Evangelist on Sept. 6, 1840; godmother was Ann Cassilly. In 1877 he moved from Peoria to Butler County, Nebraska and two years later to Nuckolls County, where he bought a farm of 480 acres and made many improvements. In 1879 he married Miss Clara Knapp. (Andreas' History of the State of Nebraska) He died in 1909 and is buried in Nelson, Nebraska.
 6. Elizabeth Ann Spurck, born Feb. 23 and baptized March 9, 1843 at St. Thomas Church; sponsors William Wiseman and Catherine Dugan.
 7. Alice V. Spurck, born in Illinois about 1847, married Simon J. Kilduff in Peoria on Oct. 24, 1870. Simon was a grain merchant; the Kilduffs were living with Alice's mother in 1880. She died on May 23, 1908. She had a son, George M. Kilduff, born about 1877, who is buried on the Spurck lot in Peoria.
 8. Ellen (Nellie) Spurck, born in Illinois about 1850, married Thomas J. Shay in Peoria on June 30, 1875. They lived in Chicago, where Ellen died on April 21, 1907 and Thomas on November 4, 1910.
- D. Elizabeth Dugan was born in Pennsylvania about 1810. She was a cousin of Robert J. J. Harkins. (Biographical and Historical Memoirs of Muskingum County, Ohio; Chicago: Goodspeed, 1892, p. 476) She married Henry Dittoe on April 7, 1828 before Rev. S. H. Montgomery, O.P. Henry was a merchant in Somerset. They moved to Virginia, Cass County, Illinois, where she died on March 14, 1866. She was buried on the Spurck lot in St. Joseph Cemetery, Peoria, as "Elisabeth Dugan," as

- recorded by the German sexton. Henry died on May 6, 1879 and was buried in Peoria.
- E. Daniel Dugan was born on March 8 and baptized at Buffalo Creek on April 26, 1812.
- F. Alice Dugan married Adam Fink at Holy Trinity Church in Somerset on May 6, 1832 before Rev. Nicholas D. Young, O.P. (Adam, son of John and Mary (Sneeringer) Fink of Somerset, was baptized at Conewago Chapel on March 22, 1799.) Alice died in 1849 and was buried at Holy Trinity in Somerset. Adam and his children were living with Henry and Elizabeth (Dugan) Dittoe in Somerset in 1850.
1. Mary E. Fink, born March 20, 1833, died January 9, 1835; she is buried with her grandparents at Holy Trinity in Somerset.
 2. Matilda Frances Fink, baptized on February 2, 1836 at Holy Trinity in Somerset; sponsors were Robert Harkins and Catherine Dittoe
 3. Michael Joseph Fink, baptized at Somerset on January 20, 1840
 4. Albert Fink, baptized at Somerset on June 5, 1842; sponsor was John Dugan; apparently died by 1850.
 5. Albin B. Fink, born about 1846, was living with his father in Somerset in 1850; with Henry and Elizabeth Dittoe in Peoria in 1860; and with Catherine Wiseman and her son Albert in Peoria in 1870.

CONVERSION.—On Sunday, August 3, Mrs. Catharine Lahr, wife of John Lahr, formerly belonging to the Lutheran church and Miss Mary Megill, were solemnly received into the bosom of the holy Roman Catholic Church by Rev. D. M. Winands, pastor at Canal Dover.

Episcopal Visitation.

ST. PATRICK'S, PERRY COUNTY, OHIO.

There were 104 persons confirmed in this church, on the 5th August. Of these 75 were of the congregation, and 29 of that of St. Peter's, Monday Creek.

ST. DOMINICK'S, PERRY COUNTY.

In this church there were 68 confirmed on 6th August.

ST. FRANCIS', PERRY COUNTY.

One hundred and eleven were confirmed on the 7th August. The church begins to be too small for the congregation—the Rev. Mr. Underthiner preached in it to the German Catholics, and the Archbishop outside to the English or American Catholics and a large concourse of non-Catholics. This congregation, as well as that of Monday Creek, is under the pastoral care of Rev. Mr. Monaghan.

ZANESVILLE.

There were sixty-nine confirmed in the church of St. Thomas Aquinas and seventy-three in that of St. Nicholas. Dominican Sisters, four in number, occupy a fine building lately erected for their use in Zanesville, and there is a large school house, four stories high, now being roofed, adjoining the Convent. The Sisters have upwards of two hundred children under their care. They teach both boys and girls.
